Multimedia Library Collection: Sound & Vision

Plenty of Fish

Kelsey, Elin, Katrina Pyne, and Amorina Kingdon

Kelsey, Elin, Katrina Pyne, and Amorina Kingdon. "Plenty of Fish." Hakai Magazine, 7 June 2021. Mp3, 26:27.

> In this episode of the podcast, we learn all about the very loud mating calls of plainfin midshipman (Porichthys notatus) also known as singing fish.
>
> Ah, l'amour. Finding a mate is a big part of life for all animals and those beneath the waves are no exception. Of course, this search for love often involves—you guessed it—sounds. From the booming grunt of a fish trying to lure a lucky lady to his lair, to the mournful moan of a whale, sending out deep, loud sounds across ocean basins to potential mates from far, far away, this episode of The Sound Aquatic listens in on love beneath the waves.
>
> (Source: Hakai Magazine)

In this episode of The Sound Aquatic, host Elin Kelsey introduces listeners to the mating calls of fish.

© 2021 Hakai Magazine

Related links:

- The Sound Aquatic podcast
  https://hakaimagazine.com/the-sound-aquatic/
- Hakai Magazine
  https://hakaimagazine.com/
- Website of Elin Kelsey
  https://www.elinkelsey.org/

Websites linked in this text:

- https://hakaimagazine.com/sound-aquatic-show-notes/#3

Sound & Vision Collection, Multimedia Library, Environment & Society Portal
Plenty of Fish
Source URL: http://www.environmentandsociety.org/node/9533
Print date: 27 November 2026 20:14:28