Environment & Society Portal

Multimedia Library Collection: Art & Graphics

NIES/SIGTUNA, Stockholm/Uppsala, Sweden

NIES/SIGTUNA from peternorrmanstudio on Vimeo .

Norrman, Peter, Steven Hartman, and Anders Birgersson. Developing the Environmental Humanities: A Work in Progress. Stockholm: Nordic Network for Interdisciplinary Environmental Studies, 2012. 41:12 min.

This video installation, produced by the Nordic Network for Interdisciplinary Environmental Studies in partnership with Sigtunastiftelsen , is a collaborative work by filmmaker/video artist Peter Norrman, writer and researcher Steven Hartman (leader of NIES at KTH Royal Institute of Technology and Uppsala University) and Swedish designer/director Anders Birgersson (founder of the Zoo People media collective). It was the first in a projected series of video installations that seeks to explore the environmental humanities as a scholarly domain of growing significance. Scholars interviewed for this installation include the following ecocritics and historians of science, technology and environment (in their order of appearance in the film): James Fleming, Ursula Heise, Greg Garrard, Sarah Elkind, David Nye, Donald Worster and Hannes Bergthaller.

Related links:

- Nordic Network for Interdisciplinary Environmental Studies
  https://www.nordforsk.org/en/programmes-and-projects/projects/nordic-network-for-interdisciplinary-environmental-studies-nies
- Peter Norrman homepage
  http://www.peternorrman.com/
- “Developing the Environmental Humanities”: Video on Vimeo
  https://vimeo.com/38246572

Websites linked in this text:

- https://vimeo.com/38246572
- https://vimeo.com/user1039942
- https://vimeo.com/
- http://www.sigtunastiftelsen.se/
- https://www.kth.se/sci/2.836/inst/philhist/historia/forskning/tidigare-forskningsprojekt/nies2/about/leadership

-1.75312

Art & Graphics Collection, Multimedia Library, Environment & Society Portal
NIES/SIGTUNA, Stockholm/Uppsala, Sweden
Source URL: http://www.environmentandsociety.org/node/4639
Print date: 11 November 2026 08:32:51