Mathews, Freya. "Vale Val: In Memory of Val Plumwood." Environmental Values 17, no. 3 (2008): 317–21. doi:10.3197/096327108X343095 .

On 29 February 2008, Val Plumwood died of stroke at the age of 68. She was not only a seminal environmental thinker, whose book Feminism and the Mastery of Nature has become a classic of environmental philosophy; she was also a woman who fearlessly lived life on her own deeply considered terms, often in opposition to prevailing norms. In this obituary Freya Mathews discusses Val's life and her contributions to environmental philosophy.
