Environment & Society Portal

Multimedia Library Collection: Archival Gems

Photograph: Theodore Roosevelt in Nahuel Huapi National Park, 1913

Unknown Photographer

Archival Gems Collection, Multimedia Library, Environment & Society Portal
Photograph: Theodore Roosevelt in Nahuel Huapi National Park, 1913
Source URL: http://www.environmentandsociety.org/node/7949
Print date: 22 November 2026 20:29:43

Brochure of Nahuel Huapi National Park with Theodore Roosevelt standing on the shores of the lake. Photograph taken during his visit to the park in 1913 as a guest of Francisco Moreno.

Creator: Unknown.
Brochure likely produced in the 1930s.

Courtesy of NARA, Record Group 79, Entry 10: Central Classified Files, 1907-49, Box 2913, Folder: "Proposed Foreign Parks, Argentina, 1934-47," p115.

PUBLIC DOMAIN This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Public Domain Mark 1.0 License .

Brochure of Nahuel Huapi National Park with Theodore Roosevelt standing on the shores of the lake. Photograph taken during his visit to the park in 1913 as a guest of Francisco Moreno. (Unknown photographer. Public Domain.)

This image appears in: Wakild, Emily. "Blurring Boundaries: Nahuel Huapi National Park." Environment & Society Portal, Arcadia 2015, no. 5. Rachel Carson Center for Environment and Society. http://www.environmentandsociety.org/node/6915 .

> As the oldest park in South America, Nahuel Huapi served as a reference, a landmark, and a source of pride for proponents of other parks. Former United States president Teddy Roosevelt visited the future park area in 1913.
>
> —Emily Wakild

Read more here .

Websites linked in this text:

- https://www.environmentandsociety.org/arcadia/blurring-boundaries-nahuel-huapi-national-park
- https://www.environmentandsociety.org/arcadia/blurring-boundaries-nahuel-huapi-national-park

Archival Gems Collection, Multimedia Library, Environment & Society Portal
Photograph: Theodore Roosevelt in Nahuel Huapi National Park, 1913
Source URL: http://www.environmentandsociety.org/node/7949
Print date: 22 November 2026 20:29:43